

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

March 31, 2003

Dear President Canterbury,

President asked me to tell you how much he appreciates the FDP's strong statement of support for this country's policy in Iraq. He is deeply grateful for this expression of your bonds.

outcome is not in doubt. The regime of Saddam Hussein will fall and the country will be disarmed of its weapons of mass destruction and one of the major sources of support for terrorism removed. There will be tough days ahead in the struggle to win this important battle and the FDP's steadfastness will be needed. Thanked again.

Sincerely,

Carl Rove
